

Right Connection Electrical Electricians

HISTORY

Sally Liddell founded Right Connection Electrical as a way to provide reliable, high-quality electrical contracting services to people in the Melbourne area. She saw the current electrical contracting offerings in the Melbourne area and knew she could provide something that no other company could: a female owned electrical business with a focus on providing high value for money and helping homeowners complete their household electrical projects quickly and safely.

PHILOSOPHY

Sally started her business with one goal in mind: to create an honest, fair electrical contracting company that provides high value to homeowners with an emphasis on safety. She was tired of businesses that overcharged customers or pushed unnecessary upsells. In a field where women are traditionally underrepresented, Sally also wanted to create a female owned and operated electrical business as a way to bring greater equality and representation to the industry.
