WEDDING:

Congratulations! You are embarking on an exciting journey in your life together. I will be delighted to assist you and be a part of your ceremony and to make it the special day you had dreamed of. Designing your special day that depicts you and your partners relationship whether it is a short simple but elegant ceremony to one that represents family and cultural values with symbolism, etc. It is your day and 'tailoring' it to your requirements is what is important. To guide you in your wedding plans there are numerous internet sites for Vows, Ring Vows, Readings, Songs, Poetry, Symbols and so on. i.e. <http://weddings.about.com>

RENEWAL OF VOWS:

Have you thought of using the vows you spoke to each other on your wedding day? Or perhaps you wish to share a depth of your relationship in prose to one another with special friends about you.

You can also use symbols in your ceremony such as the candle ceremony or even the ring warming ceremony – especially if you are using new rings on this occasion.

DEDICATION/NAMING DAY:

This can be for the celebration of new babe, a child, an adult, perhaps you have changed your name and wish to celebrate its meaning.

You may not be into 'baptisms' but know that deep meaning of dedicating your child with a prayer of thanks for this wonderful life that has been given to you, or you have the understanding of the meaning of one's name and what that holds

CELEBRATION OF LIFE:

This has a meaning in different ways.....I heard of one who had survived suicide and realised just how precious life is and decided to celebrate the victory of life with treasured ones about him. This is a very powerful celebration.

There are many reasons why one would like to 'celebrate life' – it can be a milestone birthday, or perhaps celebrate the memory of a loved one

FUNERALS:

This is not an easy time for loved ones to farewell a member of their family, however, to do a ceremony that enables family, friends to give honour and respect through poems, reflection, as well as the telling of stories of a journey shared, to say 'goodbye' or 'until we meet again'. The release of balloons or doves can be used at the end of the ceremony, people have used other symbols to say farewell to a beloved.
