OUR STORY

For over 28 years, Global Concern has been providing opportunities for disadvantaged individuals and communities around the world to build better lives for themselves through education, healthcare, vocational training and micro enterprise.

Far from being a handout, Global Concern aims to transform entire communities towards self sufficiency and sustainability. We don't simply send money to overseas organisations and hope for the best, we closely monitor every one of our projects and give you the assurance that your investment is effectively addressing extreme poverty at its core.

Global Concern exists to provide education, skills training, healthcare services and food security programs to people in developing countries. Our projects focus on empowering individuals and communities with the necessary skills and tools for sustainable development. At times of crisis and disaster, Global Concern also provides emergency relief to those most affected. By working in both sustainable development with relief assistance, Global Concern aims to alleviate poverty for those that are hardest hit.

All of Global Concern's overseas projects are our own and are monitored closely by our Australian office in Sydney. Global Concern is transparent, lean and efficient and our workers are motivated by genuine love and concern for those less privileged.
