Questions to Ask Your Painting Specialist

Although doing a painting job yourself, seems like an economically reasonable task, it is any day better that you hired a professional for the task.

For that you would have some basic questions to get to know your painter before hiring them.

How do you clean up at the end of each day?

It might be days or even weeks before your project is finished unless your house is very small.

Will you give a warranty, guarantee or maintenance program?

The quality of work should be guaranteed by any good painter.

Are there any products or colors you can recommend?

A high quality painter or company can offer advice, warnings, tips and ideas because they are up-to-date on all the latest products colors and techniques.

Do you have references you can provide?

Some references from previous projects is something any painter you are considering should be able to provide.

How much will this project cost me?

While cost is important, it shouldn't be your only consideration. The painter who give the lowest bid for the project often will provide low quality as well.

Arrange for appointments with your prospective house painters and give ample time to discuss the questions above.
